The Federal Institute for Access to Information and Data Protection (IFAI) is proud to announce the 33rd International Conference of Data Protection and Privacy Commissioners (ICDPPC 2011), titled PRIVACY: The Global Age.

As data proliferates and moves through global networks at a speed once unimaginable, new businesses, technologies and applications use information in innovative ways that in turn create real economic value, however often challenging individual autonomy. In this era of data that knows no geographic boundaries, data protection agencies must work together linked by shared values and a common mission. Technologies such as the internet and mobile telephony have global reach, so our aim is to establish norms, standards, and methodologies that have similar coverage. Therefore, the 33rd International Conference of Data Protection and Privacy Commissioners will explore the path towards building the relationships and tools necessary to protect the data of individuals regardless of culture, national borders, or the challenges that come from innovative data uses.

The ICDPPC 2011 will be held in Mexico City on November 2-3 (November 1st: closed session for regulators). Pre-Conference Events will start on October 31st, so please mark your calendar.

We are developing an agenda to meet your expectations.

Shortly you will find more details in this site.
